

You and some classmates took part in an international project to promote STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, and Maths). You organised a STEM event for 12-to-14-year-old children. You have now been asked to write an article for your own and your international partners' school websites.

In your article you should:

- summarise what was offered at the event
- explain why STEM events should be promoted
- outline future developments that will make STEM even more important

Give your article a title. Write around 250 words.

Notes (these will not be marked)
