You work for the Austrian branch of a worldwide engineering company. The company magazine is publishing a series of articles written by young engineers from different countries. Your manager has asked you to write an article about being a young engineer today.

In your article you should:

- evaluate how work placements prepared you for your career
- highlight the challenges for young engineers in your field
- point out what young engineers have to offer to the company

Give your article a title. Write around 250 words.
